

Creative Babysitting Ideas...

Here are a few ideas of how to hold appointments when you have children but can't or won't pay for a babysitter. Before you look at these, please remember that you will pay a babysitter if you get a job out of the house. I always knew that some days I would break even, and some days the sitter got more BUT I knew I was investing in my future! Now my income is about $5000 a month...and I've been driving a free car for over 11 years. The investment paid off. But in case you want to try other methods....

- Trade babysitting with someone else/other MK Consultants.
- Barter products for babysitting.
- Ask someone to sit and give a percentage of the sales with the understanding if you sell nothing they get nothing this time but the next time may be $100.
- Ask favors of friends.
- Only book when husband can watch the kids.
- Have appointments at the house during nap times.
